Housing and Maintenance

0642

On a Memorandum dated 7th April, 1904, from the Minister of Railways and Canals representing that in the year 1895, Mr. W. H. Johnson, Bridge Tender on the Murray Canal, built for himself a farm house on the Canal Reserve near the railway bridge, houses in the vicinity of the Canal being scarce, and no village being situated within 5 miles of it.

The Minister further represents that subsequently he left the service of the Government, and having no further use for the house, has offered to sell it to the Government. He claims that the actual cost of the house itself to him was $1,200.

That appraisement has been made of the property in question by the Government Valuator, who reports its value as $800, and the adjustments, including a well, a stable and fruit trees, are worth $50 more, making in all $850 for the property as it now is.

Also, that during the last Session of Parliament an appropriation of $750 was voted.

The Minister recommends that authority be given for the present payment of $750, and for placing in the Estimates to be laid before Parliament this session a further sum of $100, making the total of $850 to be paid for the purchase of this property.

The Committee submit the same for approval.

On a Memorandum dated 26th November, 1902, from the Minister of Railways and Canals, representing that it is considered desirable to provide house accommodations for the bridge tender of the Smithfield Bridge over the Murray Canal, and for this purpose to acquire a residence with outbuildings including a barn, built in 1891 for Mr. W. Goodrich, on the Canal dump at that point, and which he offers to sell. The sum of $500 is suggested by the Superintendent of Operations as the price to be paid for the whole property.

The Minister recommends that authority be given for purchase accordingly.

The Committee submit the same for approval.
